

When Charly's Met Daddy

It was love at first bite.

It's fun when two irreverent brands find a connection and make some magic - and this is precisely what happened when Charly's Bakery's, Jacqui Biess, and her daughters met Old Mac Daddy owner, Jody Aufrichtig.

Jody offered the doyennes of cake creativity a chance to play; suggesting they revamp two of Old Mac Daddy's trailers.

The resulting pair of shiny Airstreams is a sweet little set-up of Mama-trailer and baby trailer; side by side they tell a story about the inner world of cake. Named Love Cake?...I Do and Love Cake?...Me too!, the lakeside trailers now make up the only double unit in the Old Mac rooming options. Perfect for couples who are travelling in tandem and ideal for parents with children old enough to sleep in a separate space, the pair share a lawn and deck for added privacy away from the action of the pool and restaurant areas.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>