

SSQ Exhibitions launches industry podcast

SSQ Exhibitions, a design and project management agency that specialises in the exhibition industry, launched their official company podcast on YouTube on Thursday, 3 December 2015. The podcast, otherwise known as the "SSQuadCast" is aimed at educating members in the industry and interested parties on the company's methods of operation and introducing key internal role players to the public. Further to that, it will create a more engaging level of information distribution through the incorporation of audio and visual.

Original Article

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>