

Mediclinic asks for free images from photographers, backlash ensues

According to a report by Business Insider, Mediclinic is facing backlash after it asked photographers to capture images of its new hospital in Stellenbosch for a competition.

The photographers were told that they will not be paid for their images. The alleged competition has led to accusations of exploitation.

Read more on this story here.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>